DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. Claims 8-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The phrase "impregnation applied substantially only on the edges faces thereof" in claim 8 is new matter because there is no original disclosure precluding the coating of the strip in areas other than the edge faces.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 16, 17 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by the Derwent publication RU 2004424. The reference discloses wood strips (i.e. an elongated shape) that have their end faces coated with a material that would inherently impregnate the faces to a degree. Concerning claim 19, this claimed is directed to a process limitation that does not add any patentably significant feature to the final product.

4. Claims 16 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by the German patent document G9413059. See the translation of the German Patent Office action. The term "parquet", by definition, is directed to wood materials. Concerning claim 19, this claimed is directed to a process limitation that does not add any patentably significant feature to the final product.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 8-13 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the German patent document 3919514 in view of Van Gulik ('592). The primary reference discloses the invention substantially as claimed, namely a plurality of wood strips (as evidenced by the use of the term parquet to describe the element and strips, and the wavy lines Figure 1 which symbolize wood) adhered to a support layer that has a tongue and groove on opposite side edges; see the Abstract, and Figures 1 and 3. However, the reference does not disclose coating the edges of the strips. The secondary reference discloses coating the edges of floor elements that are to be interconnected on a substrate with other floor elements in order to minimize the sensitivity to moisture of the resulting array of elements; see column 3, lines 20-27. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to coat all of the edges of the strips in the product of the primary reference before laminating them onto the support plate in view of the teachings in the secondary reference in order to minimize the sensitivity to moisture of the resulting array of elements. Coating the edges of the strips would inherently impregnate the edges to a degree. Concerning claim 18, this claimed is directed to a process limitation that does not add any patentably significant feature to the final product.

Conclusion

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
